JURORS' STATEMENT

It was our privilege to select this group of commendable works (from the amateur and professional submissions) for inclusion in the Richmond Art Museum's 125th Anniversary Show. We selected works that demonstrate skill, thoughtful observation or attention to subject matter, risk, exploration, compositional coherence (clarity), across diverse genres.

A note on our process: we arrived at a number of our selections in mutual agreement, early on in the process. In cases when concept/theme or subject matter was not visually identifiable, we referred to titles for possible insights. With others, in an attempt to ascertain (or glimpse) a work's formal origins, we puzzled over the artist's handling of source material—or to what degree it was original thinking with assistance from newer technologies available on the Internet. We approached submissions necessarily as outsiders to the artists' purpose, and concluded our selections with some 'horse trading' or compromise, and faith in the artists' creative honesty and sincerity.

The Best of Show was awarded to Allen Hutton for his landscape entry Golden Hour. This small, reserved, work impressed with its subtle, combinations of color, and figure/ground relationships seem to reflect the artist's earnest regard for his subject. Beyond its competent representation, the work achieved the meaning with a convincing minimal treatment. The viewer is encouraged to imagine the artist's perhaps deep affection for the land and light captured in this painting.

Abstractions such as Beth Clary Schwier offered in the humorously juicy carousel painting 'with attitude' were well received; and Rhonda Bontrager's revolving koi fish, Koi, Swimming Jewels, we found highly commendable, as the artists seem to be in a relaxed and confident relationship with their elements; like a dance between the partners... We also recognized the value of how depicting mundane, overlooked subjects like chickens in the piece, Cluckers, might deserve a space in one's conceptual imagination.

It was an honor to serve as jurors for the Richmond Art Museum's 125th anniversary show. Working together as artists and educators, we embarked on this journey with great enthusiasm, and we were impressed by the caliber of the work that was submitted. The artistic diversity and creativity displayed by the participants was inspiring, making the selection process a challenging, but immensely rewarding experience.

We'd like to extend our congratulations to all the artists, as your contributions have made this anniversary exhibition a memorable celebration of talent and artistic expression. We also want to thank the staff and administration of the Richmond Art Museum for their help and for their work to continue the enduring legacy of this exhibition. We were proud to have been asked to participate as a jurors for a show that has not only stood the test of time but that has continued to inspire and engage audiences for an impressive 125 years.

Sincerely, Carol Ann Carter and Greg Hull
